At the start of four days of important talks about the Middle East situation and Israeli-American relations, Mr. Ford coupled his assurances of American sup-port with a reminder that the United States expected Israel's cooperation in accelerating the movement toward future Arab-

Greece Takes 1st Official Step In NATO Pullout

BRUSSELS, Sept. 11 (IHT).-Greek Foreign Minister George Mayros today officially informed NATO Secretary-General Joseph Luns that his country had withdrawn from the NATO Defense Planning Committee.

The minister indicated that this was the first step in his government's declared intention to withdraw completely from the alliance's integrated defense structure. He repeated that this policy was "final." Dr. Luns made no effort to discourage the Greek government.
Or. Luns said that he had already heard of the withdrawal and was not surprised by Mr. Mayros's message. He said his talks with Mr. Mayros had been conducted in a "very friendly" atmosphere and that the talks centered on the Cyprus problem.

The Greek withdrawal has considerable implications. It means the country will not be represented in the numerous committees which take part in the prepara-tion of the ministerial meetings which range widely over every aspect of NATO's defense posture. The Greeks are following the long established precedent set by the French in withdrawing from the integrated command. They did so because they said they were disgusted with NATO for

Need for Negotiation WASHINGTON, Sept. 11

(UPI).—United Nations peacekeeping forces can keep conflicts under control but they are not a substitute for political negotiation, Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said yesterday.

Addressing a National Press Club luncheon, Mr. Waldheim said: "The Cyprus experience emphasizes again the lessons of the United Nations emergency force in the Middle East between 1956 and 1967-namely, that the presence of a United Nations peace-keeping force is not a solution in itself, and that it must not be allowed to be a pretext for slackening the momentum of the search for a political settlement. Wilson Urges Pension Rises, More Construction Spending

By Terry Robards

LONDON, Sept. 11 (NYT).-The Labor party administration of Prime Minister Harold Wilson escalated its pre-election campaign today with proposals for sweeping pension reform and increased government spending for

Although the proposals represent government policy, they stand little chance of being implemented unless the Wilson administration is returned to power with a clear majority in the upcoming

No date has yet been announced, but the Prime Minister has hinted broadly that Parliament will be dissolved shortly and that Britain's second national election in eight months will be held by mid-October. The Wilson administration has been governing since early March, after winning more votes than the Conservatives but not enough for a majority in Parliament. The Liberals and some splinter groups hold the balance of power. Today, the government proposed to raise spending on construction by about £120 million (about $276 million) over the next three years and to enact legislation that would give all workers in Britain a guaranteed retirement income with protection against inflation. These proposals came during a week of hectic activity for the Wilson administration. A printing strike has held up publication of a number of government policy papers, which are now coming out at the rate of at least one

Export Credit Talks Fail In Brussels

By David Haworth

BRUSSELS, Sept. 11 (IET).-Two days of talks between senior officials of the United States, the European Economic Community and Japan on harmonizing export credit policies ended in disagreement here today

The participants have been trying for months to reach a "gentlemen's agreement" on export credit policies to prevent the industrialized countries from undercutting each other. But U.S. Treasury Under Secre-tary Jack Bennett said at a press conference that he was still optimistic an agreement could be reached between the negotiating parties in the near future. He not been so profound as to be pessimistic about the outcome of further round of talks, which he said he hoped would take place within the next few weeks. But EEC officials said today that no arrangements had yet been fixed for a further meeting. Mr. Bennett expressed confidence that there was enough common ground between the negotiators to justify another meeting soon and that the chances of agreement on that occasion were "reasonable." The United States also attached three main conditions to their own package of proposalsposals that were not acceptable to the others. These were for safeguards on competition to meet the local costs of exporters, conditions governing the amount of aid given by some govern-ments along with export credits, and provision for exceptions to the normal rules to be made for state credits granted for large a policy document detailing plans to acquire land for public housing. The proposals for pension reform, however, have perhaps the greatest political significance at a time when inflation is running at 17 per cent or more a year and many Britons are worried about their ability to survive after retirement.

plan would provide earnings-related retirement incomes of up to £40 a week for married couples who both had well paid jobs. Single persons would get as much as £25 a week.

The foundation of the new plan would be a base level equal to the present benefits of £10 a week for single persons and £16 a week for married couples. On top of this would be additional sums based on earnings. All payments would be adjusted to match changes in average national earnings.

In a separate move that represented an effort at "fine tuning" of the British economy, the gov-ernment said it would raise its spending on construction projects by £100 million in the 1975-76 fiscal year and £20 million more in the following year. Demis Healey, the chancellor of the Exchequer, said the action was being taken to help sustain activity and employment in the industry, which has been severely depressed because of high interest rates and general uncer-tainty about the economic out-

Another £31 million would be made available to the Department of Education for school improvement projects in the next year or so. Most of this amount would go for improving or re-placing old primary schools in areas of acute need.

From its present minority position in Parliament, the administration has been unable to push through any legislation opposed by the Conservatives. In the time that remains before an election is called, it is considered highly unlikely that any major legislation will be passed, Nevertheless, British trade unions reacted to the administration's pension plan with en-thusiasm. Lionel Murray, general secretary of the Trades Union Congress, called it a "milestone," indicating support for the government's campaign. The Conservatives, who had no official comment on any of today's proposals by the government, have scheduled a press conference for tomorrow at which Edward Heath, the former prime minister, is expected to outline some of his party's campaign

Pope Views The Church 'In Difficulty'

Pope Paul VI today called on Catholics to "open their eyes" to the problems besetting the church, which he said could be solved by "authentic, working, living faith."

In an unusually frank evalua-tion of the state of the church in the modern world-a subject on which he is known to be conservative — the Pope conceded that "the church is in difficulty."

The Pope further observed that an abyss that seems to be insurmountable" is being created between modern thought and the old religious mentality. "Is it still necessary for the church to teach us how to love the poor, to aid the suffering, to teach the illiterate?" the Pope "These things are being done, and done well, by the lay world on its own. Civilization is progressing by itself." This fact accounts for materialism and desertion of the faith on the part of many, the Pope said.

Brandt's 'Disappointment' Reported

Guillaume Spy Case Is Back To Haunt Bonn Leadership

By Craig R. Whitney.

BONN, Sept. 11 (NYT).-The Gunter Guillaume spy scaudal, which forced Willy Brandt to give up his chancellorship to Helmut Schmidt last spring, has returned to haunt the government coalition.

A parliamentary investigating commission has begun questioning some of the leading politicians in the affair. This week, the weekly news magazine Der Spiegel published excerpts from a forthcoming book by Mr. Brandt, which hints that he was disappointed by some people who are now leading figures in Bonn.

Resentment over the spy affair and its repercussions could cause trouble in the top echelons of the government coalition, which has had enough trouble recently and has important state elections coming up on Oct. 27 in Hess and Bayaria.

The problem revolves around four men: Mr. Brandt, who is still chairman of the Social Democratic party; Mr. Schmidt, his successor as chancellor, who needs Mr. Brandt's support to hold the party's loyalty; Herbert Wehner, political strategist and parliamentary chief, and Hans-Dietrich Genscher, Mr. Brandt's interior minister, Mr. Schmidt's foreign minister and leader-designate of the local Democrats' coalition partners, the Free Dem-

Dependent Rivals

These are men whose ambitions and personalities have often clashed and who need each other to hold their positions.

The Social Democratic leadership met yesterday to discuss the controversy started by the Spiegel excerpts and revelatory reports. Mr. Brandt issued a press release in which he was quoted as saying: "This press campaign is apparently aimed at drawing a negative picture of the relation ship between leading figures of the party." Mr. Schmidt, in four months in office, has succeeded in halting the dangerous decline in popularity that his party suffered in the months before Mr. Brandt's resignation. Now there are some new setbacks:

• Mr. Wehner came back early from a vacation last month to a chorus of calls for his resignation because a protégé, Karl Wienand, the Social Democratic whip in the lower house of parisment, had been accused lying about his role in an earlier scandal. Mr. Wienand had to resign under pressure on Aug. 30. But Mr. Wehner, saying he would not respond to anonymous campaigns against him in the press, stayed in his post. Spy Charge Arrests

 A leader of a labor union in Stuttgart, Hans Faltermeier, was arrested Aug. 30 as a suspected East German spy, causing the same kinds of anxieties about the reliability of the Social Democrats and their leftist leanings that were stirred by the Guillaume affair last spring. Gunter Guillaume, Mr. Brandt's party liaison man, was arrested on April 24 and charged with being a spy for East Germany. Mr. Brandt resigned two weeks later on May 6. After an orderly take-over by his party deputy, Helmut Schmidt, the scandal appeared over. Now comes Der Spiegel with some revelations, plus excerpts from Mr. Brandt's book, to be serialized in the magazine begin-eifel, near Bonn, with Mr. Wehner, Holger Borner and Karl Ravens two party colleagues and advis-"Saturday evening a few private talks-first with Wehner, then with Borner and Ravensabout the G. Case. Very late, I say that I have practically decided to resign. Both friends to whom I say this try to get me to change my mind." "Both friends"-implying, Der Spiegel says, that Mr. Wehner was no longer a friend by that time, and did not counsel Mr. Brandt strongly against quitting. The implication is supported by friends of Mr. Brandt, Even Mr. Wehner admits that the relationship between the party chairman and the party strategist is not all it should be today. Worse is what Mr. Brandt implies about Mr. Genscher, who came to him on May 29, 1973, to say that there was reason to suspect that Mr. Guillaume was an East German agent. Mr. Brandt writes of the eve ning of last April 24, the day Mr.

"Naturally, that evening, the arrest of G. kept going through my head. The news that G. had been unmasked . . should not necessarily have disturbed me so much, because I had been told a good . . . while back—with the added request, to please not alter his responsibilities — that there could be leads . . . and that therefore they wanted to keep him under surveillance, For a long time it appeared to me as though it had been a matter of a unfounded suspicion. Only two months before, I was told there was reason to call in the federal prosecutors. I assumed that the security agencies would do their duty." The man who told him what he "was told." Der Spiegel correctly notes, was Mr. Genscher.

Asks to Testify Mr. Webner has asked that he be allowed to testify before the parliamentary commission about meetings he had with the head of the Germen Secret Service, Cunter Nollau, about the Guillaume case-meetings that reportedly shook Mr. Brandt when he learned of them last May.

Now, in the wake of publication of the excerpts by the magazine. Free Democrate were said to be deeply disturbed at the attacks being made on their leader. Der Spiegel says that Mr. Schmidt even gave orders that they be warned before publica-

When the United States began arming Pakistan, it did so supposedly in the context of CENTO, which was established in 1955, and not as a counter against India Since then, however, Pakistan and India have fought three major wars. A large number of congressmen do not want to see U.S. weapons being used in another war on the subcontinent.

For this reason, Mr. Bhutto is not likely to arouse a friendly response in Washington, Also, the United States does not want a new arms race in this part of Mr. Bhutto's fears appear justifiable, however, in the sense that

—Sen, Joseph Montoya, D-N.

Sen. Montoya, chairman of a Senate Appropriations subcommittee looking into the budget request, made the remark during questioning of General Services Administrator Arthur Sampson, who defended the proposal before the panel.

Government records show the request proposes to combine the benefits of two separate laws in order to provide Mr. Nixon more than twice the funds former President Lyndon Johnson received for his period of transition to

Mr. Sampson told the Senate panel that he did not know the full extent of services and supplies that Mr. Nixon will need. He said the requested funds would make the former President's "records and advice" available to the American people and

Mr. Sampson then outlined what he described as a very sophisticated security system the GSA plans to build and maintain for Mr. Nixon's records under an agreement that he and the former President signed last week.

A GSA spokesman cited the Johnson transition as a precedent, noting that he was the only President to receive the berefits of both acts and pointing out that he extended his transition period from six months to 17 months.

DEMOCRATS ABROAD!

For the first time, Democrats living abroad have the right to vote on national Democratic Party policy.

And for the first time, the Democratic Party is writing a Charter. We have been asked to elect four voting delegates (and an alternate) to attend the historic conference in Kansas City, Mo. on December 6, 7 and 8, where delegates from every State, Democratic Senators, Congressmen and Governors will meet to adopt a Charter.

You, yourself, can run for election as a delegate. Democrats in every country with an active Democratic organization are entitled to nominate up to two candidates who will either be chosen by a primary ballot to be mailed to all registered Democrats in each country, or by an open meeting in which all registered Democrats have the right to vote. Each local committee will decide.

You must register to be able to vote for delegates.

Any Democrat can register merely by filling in the form below or by sending a similar statement, with name, address and telephone number, to his or her Democratic Committee (listed below): If there is no committee in your country you can register with the London Committee. Get your friends to do the same, but do it now. How to run for delegate.

If you wish to run as one of your country's nominees for delegate, copy the wording in the box below and get the signatures of five sponsors who have also registered as Democrats in your country. Be sure that all names and addresses are legible. All nominations must arrive at your Committee headquarters by September 22, 1974. The date of the final vote will be announced later.

U.S. Reviewing Cuban Policy In Wake of Recent 'Signals'

U.S. Indicts 125 in Alleged Drugs Ring

By Stuart Auerbach WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (WP).

U.S. narcotics investigators today had arrested nearly 100 persons accused of running a billiondollar network that smuggles and distributes virtually all the illegal amphetamine tablets in the The coordinated arrests which started yesterday, were the result of an eight-month special investigation, and the warrants came from actions by grand juries in 11 cities. In all, 125 indictments were returned.

In addition, the Department of Justice's Drug Enforcement Administration said that Mexican authorities were raiding 10 secret laboratories that produced benzedrine tablets called "minihen. nies," which are illegal in Mexico and strictly controlled in the United States. Four labs were reported closed down today and 25 persons arrested in Mexico.

3 Billion Pills

DEA administrator John Bartels jr. estimated that the Mexi-can laboratories and their United States distributors were responsible for spreading 30,000 kilograms
-about 3 billion tablets-of illegal amphetamines into the United States in a year. He said the pills are worth more than $1.6 billion on the illicit market.

"We expect to see a price in-crease right away," one DEA

Mr. Bartels said the pills were manufactured in the 10 Mexican laboratories -- located in Mexico City, Tijuana and Guadalajara— from chemicals sinuggled into the country. They were shipped to warehouses in Tijuana, including one that operated behind a pharmacy. From there they were smuggled into the United States in plastic pillow-shaped bags that hold 25,000 pills. U.S. customs agents at San Ysi-dro, Calif., just north of Tijuana, have seized 36.5 million miniben-nies pills since 1970 - most of them in the last 1 1/2 years. All told, 58 million minibennies have been seized since 1970, again, most of them in 1973 and 1974. Chanca in Crete.

One good banking idea in Canada

Over 100 years ago, we saw Canada's need for financial backing to develop her rich, natural resources. That was our first good idea. It led to other good ideas in New York and in many other places in the world: good ideas about trade, investment and international financing.

Today, we have over 1600 branches from the Atlantic to the Pacific and offices in Australia, Europe, Japan, London, the USA and throughout the Caribbean. We are one of the world's largest banks with over $16 billion in assets.

We have seen a lot of small businesses become big businesses and a lot of good ideas become realities.

It is coal's big chance. Britain's energy secretary, Eric Varley, a former miner, also backs the program, and his support will nean £600 million in addition o normal investment expectaions of £800 million.

Yorkshire, Midlands

In the main coal fields, in Yorkshire and the Midlands, the irive is on to extend existing nines and find new seams. The Coal Board already is employing more deep drilling "rigs" on land than are working in the entire North Sea for oil.

Pianning approval is being sought to open up a huge new mine at Selby, in Yorkshire, which could produce 10 million tons a year by the 1980s and employ 3,000 men. It would be Europe's biggest mine, a symbol of coal's renewed importance. Geologists estimate there are one billion tons of coal under Selby's fields, and Sir Derek called the 3.25-meter seams close to the surface "the last virgin reserves in Western Europe." New anthracite mines are to

But what is effective? Sir Derek believes that each man. each pit, has to be rewarded for what it produces. Only then will an incentive plan have what he calls "bite."

He is opposed by militant leftwingers in the union who, for a variety of reasons, some of them ideological, want a "nationalbased' plan which does not differentiate between coal regions. Behind the Coal Board's in-sistence on "bite" lie erratic and sometimes disappointing production figures since the huge effort began to get the pits functioning again after the strike. Stirring Press Criticism

French Cabinet Meets Symbolically in Lyons

By James Goldsborough

PARIS, Sept. 11 (IHT) .- The vernment went to the provinces today for the first time since World War II, a controversial move that President Valery Giscard d'Estaing says symbolizes his intention to decentralize France from Paris.

Today's cabinet meeting in Lyons, France's third largest city, after Marseilles, was the first time the Cabinet had met outside Paris in peacetime. Governments moved to the provinces at times during the Franco-Prussian war and World Wars I and II, but never for a routine weekly cabi-

The move has spurred con-siderable criticism that Mr. Gis-eard d'Estaing continues to be preoccupied with style rather than substance in his adminis-tration. Press criticism has been so strong that it prompted Mr. Giscard d'Estaing to telephone the Paris newspaper France-Soir last week to protest that the Lyons move wasn't a "gimmick." but rather a symbol of the decentralization that was plan-

Sensitive French Issue

The controversy was stirred because Mr. Giscard d'Estaine was tampering with one of the most ensitive of French issues-Paris vs. the provinces. People here still are classified as Jacobins or Girondists depending on their views on the decentralization issue. Napoleon generally is credited with establishing the tentacular system that ties the provinces to Paris, although the origins of French centralization go back to the Capetian kings of the 14th century.

In 1969, Gen. de Gaulle lost a referendum and resigned as president when voters rejected his alization. Former Prime Minister Jacques Chaban-Delmas fell into disgrace with the Gaullist party a year later when he proposed regional reforms that the party judged too daring. Gaullist strength traditionally has been in Paris, rather than the provinces.

An official spokesman commented here last week that the government had been shocked by the near unanimous opposition in the press to today's Lyons cabinet meeting. A spokesman said today that Mr. Giscard d'Estaing's intention was a "fundamental retorm of social structures." Fuare meetings in other provincial cities are planned.

with the notable exception of Le Progres, Lyons's leading newspaper. That paper said the Lyons meeting was the beginning of the end of an "abusive tradition," and a symbol of decentralization measures to come.

Nightmare Compounded

Ford's untimely pardon for Richard Nizon are finally becoming apparent to the White House. The official disclosure that the President is now considering pardons for all those convicted or accused of Watergaterelated crimes underscores the peril his rash action poses for every concept of justice, law and leadership in this democracy.

There is obvious merit to the argument that it is grossly unfair to prosecute and punish the underlings when the ex-President in whose service and for whose benefit the misdeeds were committed is given blanket absolution—without either confession or even specification in any formal document of the crimes for which he is being pardoned.

But something else is even more obvious: The foreclosing by President Ford of the fudicial process on which the nation now depends to learn the truth of the abuses perpetrated upon it by the man who put Mr. Ford in the White House would make the new President the central figure in a cover-up as worrisome and divisive as the one that drove Mr. Nixon out of office.

Instead of closing the book on an agonizing national scandal, amnesty for all the Watergate conspirators and cancellation of a trial now less than three weeks away would perpetuate that scandal with far graver political, legal and moral consequences than those the country has already suffered. No

The horrendous implications of President convincing argument could be advanced for keeping any convicted public official, judge or civil servant in jail. Indeed, it would be hard to explain why all the prisons should not be emptied and all the courts disbanded.

It is precisely because the dangers inherent in indiscriminate and ill-considered invocation of the pardoning power are so overwhelming that it has been used only under extraordinary circumstances across the centurles of English and American jurisprudence. Each exercise of executive elemency involves risk to the concept of equal justice, except in instances where the original conviction was demonstrably unjust.

That is why President Ford, having erred so grievously in his precipitate pardoning of his predecessor before any court process against him had even begun, would do well to think through the implications of further pardons more carefully than he did the first.

The issue is not, and never has been, primarily one of putting a few people into prison cells. Rather, the issue is to affirm that the United States is a nation of laws -laws that apply equally to all citizensoperating under a constitutional system strong enough to survive an attempt at intimidation and subversion from the loftiest positions of power.

Only after that affirmation is complete, will it be time to consider mitigating eircumstances that might warrant clemency.

Growing Dossier

Hopes for an "Open Presidency," marked by candor and forthrightness, threaten to become casualties of Mr. Ford's mishandling of the Watergate aftermath.

Apparently, no one in Congress-and few in the White House—were consulted or even informed about the delicate decision to pardon Richard Nixon An obscure private lawyer was engaged to make contacts with the former President in deepest secrecy, just two days after the President had informed the country that he would not move in adyance of the normal processes of law.

The official White House spokesman was instructed by presidential intimates to deny categorically that there had been any negotiation with Mr. Nixon in his San Clemente hideway-a full week after the clandestine talks began. To his great credit, the spokesman, J.F. terHorst, quit his post.

The President explained that fears for the health of his predecessor figured largely in his decision to grant clemency, but it is far from clear on what information he based those fears. Only whispered reports from several of Mr. Nixon's old cronies have come out so far, and these are totally at odds with testimony of less involved visitors to San Clemente, who found the former President in glowing health. How well can a President so easily swayed in a decision of such moment measure up to the challenges involved in fateful negotiations with foreign powers and domestic interests eager to capitalize on gullibility or weakness?

Even more ominous for the future. President Ford has allowed a dangerous note to creep into his public evaluation of the Nixon administration's fatal scandals. They were a national tragedy "in which we all have played a part," Mr. Ford said in granting

It is accurate to say that all Americans have been victims of this tragedy. But there is no accuracy at all in suggesting that the American people, not just the cynical handful who occupied positions of highest power, bear the blame for it. If that is President Ford's considered judgment, it is a fuzzing of responsibility which bodes only ill for the near and distant future.

International Opinion

Pardoning Mr. Nixon

The question arises whether in any circumstances, and whatever the consequences. a man should be put above the law because he is president.

The granting of the pardon to Mr. Nixon could set as terrifying a precedent as his exposure and sacking has set a good one.

-From the Daily Telegraph (London). * * *

The most powerful democracy in the world . . . today gives us a magisterial lesson in princely absolutism. No republic on our continent accords its president a right of pardon as broad and irrevocable as that which Mr. Ford has just exercised to the benefit of Mr. Richard Nixon.

The measure taken by President Ford will lend itself to controversy, as much as it is paired with the sentimental considerations which tore from Mr. Nixon sighs of contrition in the same style.

The pardon saves Richard Nixon the heavy stakes, but it doesn't save his face. It clearly implies that the ex-President was in a position of threatened indictment, that the arm of the law was soon to strike.

Mr. Nixon had a narrow escape, but at the price of a new humiliation. He who hinted, the day after his resignation, that he could do without favorable treatment, now seizes the perch offered him to climb out of the abyss into which he sank deeper each day.

—From Le Monde (Paris).

A trial would adversely affect the political climate in America just at a time when calm appears at hand. President Ford has placed this need first in putting a definitive end to Watergate.

--From De Telegraaf (Amsterdam).

The decision was Ford's first mistake. Ford goes not have it in mind to give uncondi-Monal amnesty to the Americans who opposed the Vietnam war and were forced to leave their country. But Nixon—guilty of the Vietnam war, Watergate and other big crimes-shall be protected, otherwise the system would break down . . all Americans are not equal before the law.

-From Aftonbladet (Stockholm).

The Outlook in Britain

The strongest single argument for continuing with Labor government is that the deepening crisis will educate a Labor government more quickly than a Labor opposition. There must be doubt whether a Conservative-Liberal coalition, even though it might have over 60 per cent of the national vote, would be strong enough to overcome inflation. A government with sound views. but with inadequate political strength to carry them out, would not be a good outcome of the election.

Yet the Labor party itself is so deeply divided-there is now so little left in common between the two wings of the partythat it too could easily break, just as a Conservative-Liberal coalition might break, under the pressure of inflation, and the diffleulty of reaching economic policy decisions.

The Conservatives are approaching the election in a state of weakness and with only the most qualified expectation of winning. It may be from this modesty of expectation that they have produced such a reasonable manifesto, so much nearer than most manifestos to the real issues. Manifestos do not win elections, but it is better to have a good one than a bad one. At any rate the Conservatives have rightly identifled the central issue, and put forward a program for dealing with it that ought in a more rational world to be common ground between all three parties. What is really worrying is to have Mr. Healey at the same moment forecasting that the social contract can bring inflation down to 10 per cent by the end of next year and to single figures after that. Surely we are past the stage at which such complacent forecasts can be accepted.

pardoning Richard M. Nizon,

President Ford has raised serious ramifications of a Nixon pardon. Preliminary reports of that study submitted to White House counsel Philip Buchen suggested it was much too soon for any possible pardon. That view was shared by Buchen himself as well as other aides President Ford brought into the White House. "I don't know one Ford man either on his staff or in his kitchen cabinet, who wanted an immediate pardon," a Ford insider told

Gen. Alexander Haig, the chief of staff inherited from Nixon, was viewed by these Ford insiders as advocating a quick pardon. But not even the mighty Haig is believed influential enough to have swayed the President from the resolve expressed at his Aug. 28 press conference to await action by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski before considering a pardon for Nixon.

What changed the President's mind? The answer is put identically by several Ford advisers: "Somebody got on Ford." Specifically, that "somebody" told the President that Nixon was in precarious condition emotionally and physically and could not survive

Different Story

This certainly was not the message brought back from San Clemente by Benton Becker, the young Washington lawyer sent there by Mr. Ford to negotiate with Nixon. Becker encountered a composed Nixon, wholly in command of himself, and so reported to the White House. Accordingly, the "somebody" was a person in far more intimate contact with the real Nixon at San Clemente. In the opinion of one informed Ford adviser, it was Julie Nixon Eisenhower, the former president's engagingly bright daughter, who has always been a favorite of Mr. Ford's. Whoever the San Clemente caller, Mr. Ford's stunning reversal is seen by his closest advisers as dictated not by politics but by personal compassion, Here, then, is no repeat of the infamous Saturday night massacre. Mostly private criticism of the President within his own party goes not to motives but to judgment. The cost of that had indement is running perflously high. By breaking past promises, Mr. Ford has shredded his own credibility and put all Republican candidates on the Watergate spot less than two months before the election. His presidency, his relations with Congress and Republican campaign prospects all have been damaged.

Republicans are consequently asking whether this was a single abysmal aberration or a clue to congenital behavior in time of crisis. They desperately hope the unwholesome parallel in this crisis with President Nixon, who never consulted his party.
Only Haig, Buchen and counselor Robert Hartman were kept ed about the pardon. Mr. Ford took no advance soundings of congressional reaction. A longtime Ford intimate, House Minority Leader John Rhodes (one of the few Republicans giving the pardon his private approval), was informed Sunday moon at the ninth tee at Burning Tree following the public anement. Nor is there any sign that another wise old Ford crony, Melvin R. Laird, was consulted in advance. The Cabinet -including still another Ford crony, Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton-was ignored.

Unless it be indeed a case of some being more equal than

As a free American, I ask: Is Mr. Nixon's emotional health and the suffering of his family truly distinguishable from the emotional health and family suffering of Alger Hiss and his family, of Owen Lattimore and his family or of scores of other people and their families rightly or wrongly pursued by Mr. Nixon during his congressional career? We should not have a double standard ' emotional problems or fan s problems which gives royal preference to a resigned President of the United States.

As a lawyer, I am concerned and sorrowful to find that pardon has been granted on a truly unequal basis. If Mr. Nixon had made a full confession and disclosure, his perdon would have been more acceptable for the evildoer would not be able to profit from his crimes. A full confession would make a $2-million memoir book sale impossible, It would also lay to rest once and for always the wesseling concerning Mr. Nixon's resoonsibility If the President wants tranquillity in America, he must insure that it will never, never be possible for Mr. Nixon or his supporters to claim, as Hitler did, a stab in the back-a betraval Only recently Mr. Agnew demonstrated by a letter to The Washington Post that the Communists have no monopoly on rewriting history. As long as the President permit the continuance of the myth of Mr. Nixon's misjudgment, so long will the country be divided. A confession, or impeachment or a criminal trial would have provided a conclusive answer.

The denial of the principle equal justice under the law, as represented by the pardon leaves America in limbo in perabandon the principles of our forefathers and to embark on an umprecedented pre-trial pardon. And what is to happen to the tax case against Mr. Nixon? What other crimes of which we now have no knowledge will remain unpenished?

All other considerations aside, President Ford's first-of-its-kind blanket pardon is further unique in being a one-man blanket. A general amnesty of all known and unknown crimes traditionally applies to all who need it. But this one was tailor-made for one man only. How can Special Prosecutor Jaworski in conscience now stay on the job and tay to prosecute those whose only second-class Americans, while Richard Nixon rides in the firstclass car all by himself? JIM BOOTH

It is a sad occasion to see that "the system," after getting the evil Nixon off its back, works the same way as before: not in the interest of the people, but of the GOP party. As long as there are only two parties, each of them including the extreme left and the extreme right-wingers, there is no chance for the voters in fairly choosing a way out of rivalry between the two parties to the United States, not only to their own people but to the world, which is so badly needed

Cyprus Blame So the Greeks think that the whole Cyprus mess should be blamed on the Americans? From a recent statement made by reign Minister George Mayros, "We believe the Americans were able to stop the Turks from landing on Cyprus," it is evident that the weak Greek Army was willing to challenge the vastly superior Turkish Army and then wait for the United States to get them out Anybody at all familiar with the Turks would know that only direct military force would have stopped them from invading Cyprus in answer to the criminal Athens-engineered Makarios coup. The publisher Hachette has commissioned Baron de Rosnay to write a book on the subject, the baron said, which will follow a booklet he just finished, recording the first modern backgammon rules in French.

Prince Obciensky, who has written a hefty book in English, offers many reasons why the game should be popular in France. Recalling that it may be the oldest game in existence perhaps 3,000 years—the prince said that "backgammon is the most narcotic game ever played. I've seen people play as long as three days and three nights. That was in Switzerland." It is easy to learn, hard to play and it doesn't last long, "from five to seven minutes," he added.

The Romans also added the spice of sex to their game. An early version of "strip poker" is depicted on the back of an ancient, silver looking glass. A young patricien and a young maid sit partially undressed in front of a backgammon board. A few pieces of clothing lie on the floor nearby. The Latin inscription reads: "I believe I have beaten you."

"What came next," the prince said, "is anyone's guess."

The Bitterest Fruit of Them All

THE bitterest of all edible fruits is probably the colocynth.

Brillat-Savarin cited it as one of the two extremes of taste writing of "flavors . . from the strawberry to the colocynth."

lago, referring to Othello's love for Desdemons, predicted (and did everything he could to make the prediction come true): "The food that to him now is as luscious as locusts, shall be to him shortly as ascerb as colo-quintida." (Locusts, it should perhaps be explained, referred in this case to the sweet pulp of the fruit of Cassia fistula, the drumstick tree; in Shakespeare's time colocynth was imported into England from Cyprus.

This characteristic of the colo-cynth has caused it to be called, in various places, the bitter apple, the bitter cucumber and the bit-ter gourd. The last is the closest. The colocynth is a gourd, or perhaps a melon, its nearest-relative being the watermelon, which is Citrullus vulgaris, while the colocynth is Citrullus colo-

Bitterness suggests medicine: Many a plant which has possessed few other qualities has entered into the pharmacopela for no better reason. Colocynth was used widely in medicine in the 17th century, but not on the basis of its taste alone. It actually is a cathertic (so is cassia fistula) Iago had a one-track mind), the active principle being the same element which accounts for its bitter taste, colocynthin. It is still used in medicine; fruit meant for this purpose is picked

French Tapestries Stolen

GRENOBLE, Sept. 11 (AP) .--Ten priceless Aubusson tapestries were stolen from an ancient abbey near here last night, police reported today. The tapestries, dating from 1632 depict the history of when it has become fully grown cold water, dried, and fine but before it is ripe, the period when the pulp provides the most effective purgative.

The colocynth is perhaps a native of Africa, but enjoys a wide range—India, Ceylon, Iran, Artible, Syris, the Greek Islands, North Africa, the Cape Verde Islands and southeastern Spain. It is round, about the size of an orange, with thick yellowish rind and spongy pulp. Colocynths often appear on the table as decorations rather than as food. Tile many completely nonelible gourds, they occur in a. wide terns, so that they make attractive as well as appropriate orna-ments for the dining room. Whether for this reason, or for its value is medicine, or even exidenths grown on his domains. The bitterness of the colocynth has caused it to disappear from today's larder, except in the Sahara, where the choice of foods is so limited that no possibility can be neglected. The flat brown ovoid seeds of the colocynth and the heavy oil pressed from them are used by a number of tribes.

"Wild seeds, roots and fruits," wrote Lloyd Cabot Briggs in "Tribes of the Sahara," "are important foods in the Tibesti, because cultivated plants are either scarce or absent in most of the area. Colocynth, the favorite seed-producing plant, is gathered by Teda women in October, but it is sometimes cultivated also on a small scale.

"The seeds are very bitter and violently purgative in their natural state and so require elaborate preparation to make them edible. First they are dried, stuffed into sacks, and trodden to loosen the husks. Next they are winnowed, mixed with the ashes of camel dung, ground on a saddle quern, and winnowed once again. Then they are boiled with tamarisk washed over and over in stored away. The finished ; duct is usually cooked by re ing. Colocynth flour ground with dried dates is used a iron ration on the march." FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

Paramount Has New Movie System Paramount Pictures Corp. has developed a photographic system that will enable film-makers to employ "the most lavish or strangely contrived environments" at a fraction of what they normally would cost. Called Magicam, and described by Paramount as "the most important technical advancement for the industry since the advent of talkies," the new system utilizes two cameras, one of which views the actors and the other a miniature set. The two images are combined instantaneously, Paramount says, "thus allowing the director, camerantan and actors to view the scene as it occurs." Paramount says that "sets formerly impossible to construct, or simply too expensive, now are available to producers through the use of min-lature sets and the Magicam system. The

The oil companies were alleged to have abused their strong market positions earlier this year by what was said to be excessively high prices for their petroleum products. The cartel office spokesman says action was dropped because of a change in the situation in the petroleum product market—an apparent reference to the recent drop in petroleum product prices.

N.Y. Broker Reduces Offices

Harris, Upnam & Co., ope of Wall Street's larger retail brokerage houses, has eliminated eight of about 81 offices in recent weeks in an effort to reduce costs. Walter Long jr., secretary and first vice-president of the firm, declined to comment on whether the firm, like a majority in the securities industry, has been losing money. Its fiscal year ended Aug. 31, and the results were discussed Wednesday at a quarterly board meeting. Like many other firms with large branch office networks, Harris, Upham decided to cut back because for months the costs of running some offices had been exceeding the earnings they generated.

Chrysler and AMC Raise Prices Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. have become the last of the Big Four auto makers to announce price increases for 1975 models cars. In separate actions, AMO an-nounced that prices would go up an average of $300, or 7.7 per cent, over comparably equip-ped 1974 vehicles, and Chrysler announced a boost of about $400, or 8.5 per cent. About $350 of the Chrysler increase is in the base price, the rest in price increases for optional equipment, the firm said. The increase by AMC was the lowest 1975 model increase indicated by any of the nation's four major auto makers. General Motors earlier increased prices an average of $446, or 9 per cent, and Ford Motor $416, or 8 per cent.

tax ruling will add significantly to the cost and difficulty of tap-ping foreign sources of capital, ially Arab oil wealth. In a little-noticed action late last month, the Internal Revenue Service said it would no longer grant exemptions to certain income-tax requirements aimed at foreign investors. Previously, these exemptions had been granted routinely to interest payments made by qualified offsbore subsidiaries of U.S. corporations.

Thanks partly to the examp-tions, multinational companies have raised billions of dollars from foreign investors and banks in recent years. This source of financing for capital-hungry com-

The investment bankers concede the problem is somewhat academic at the moment because the market for the kind of borrowing U.S. companies want to do is all but dead. Interest rates in the international capital market are higher than in the domestic market and lenders are unwilling to make long-term com-

But in the past, borrowing in the international long-term mar-ket by U.S. companies has averaged $1 billion to $2 billion a year and investment bankers expect this "Eurobond" potential to re-appear when market conditions

In addition, Mr. Mulford esti-

And he figures foreign sources could supply su-other $1 billion a year to new categories of borrowers who were becoming interested in the market-public utilities, for example. Until last month, U.S. companies could establish offshore finance subsidiaries; many of them headquartered in Curacao, for the specific purpose of boruch sales could be made in rowing money from foreigners. The foreign investor can recover his withheld payments by filing a U.S. tax return at year-end, but he loses the use of the money in the meantime. Also many foreign investors are reluctant to go through the paperwork and disclosure required to get the money, investment bankers say.

The withholding rate can be reduced through blisteral tax treaties. 5 Charged With Misapplying $4 Million of Pennsy Funds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP). Two former Penn Central Railroad officers and three other men have been indicted on federal charges of conspiring to misspply $4.2 million to Penn Central funds

The Justice Department said today that the five were also charged with mail and wire fraud in a 23-count indictment returned in U.S. district court in Phila-

Arab Pressure Put Off Oil Auction by Saudis

By Juan de Onis

(NYT).—King Faisal of Saudi Arabia recently called off a large oil auction designed to force a reduction in the world price be-cause of "strong antagonism" toward the measure by other oil producers, according to Saudi government sources.

In return for suspending the auction, the Saudi sources said that Algeria, which had objected to the auction in a letter from President Houari Boumedienne to King Paisal, had agreed to support the Saudi view that there should be no increase in the posted price of oil before next year.

King Faisal has also sent what Saudi sources called a "strongly worded" message to the Shah of Iran calling for an agreement among the major oil-producing tries and rising food prices. The conflict over oil prices has threatened to tear apart the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, made up of 13 countries that account for 85 per cent of world oil exports.

OPEC meeting in Ecuador, Saudi Arabia blocked a major price increase supported by all other members. The organization is scheduled to meet again in Vienna tomorrow to set prices for the last quarter of this year. On July 21, during a visit to Saudi Arabia by U.S. Treasury

The Saudi intention was clearly to put pressure on the world oil market and bring prices down by accepting bids below the present Saudi price for government-owned off, which is 93 per cent of the posted price of $11.65 a barrel, or $10.83. Retaliation to this threat came mediately from Kuwait, Iraq and Libya, which have refused to sell oil at less than 93 per cent of the posted price. As a result, Kuwait's production has been cut back to 1.9 million barrels a day from 255 million barrels in June, and Libya has reportedly dropped daily production to 1.4 million barrels from 2 million barrels three months ago. Venezuela has also cut back production to support the present price level. Iran has refused bids that did not meet its price on 275,000 barrels a day of government-owned oil. In addition, Iran, Kuwait and

Abu Dhabi, which together produce more than Saudi Arabia's recent daily output of 8.5 million barrels, threatened to counter any Saudi production increase by cutting back their own output by an equivalent amount.

Investors Lack Interest

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (IHT). on the New York Stock Exchange today, carrying losses into the third consecutive session.

As yesterday, volume was low and, with little in the news that would bring any reaction on Wall Street, analysts attributed the decline to the general economic malaise that has sent stocks slumping in recent weeks.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell by 3.45 points to 654.72 as declining issues outnumbered gainers by more than two to one. Today's low turnover of 11.82 million shares compared with 11.98 million yesterday.

Great American Mortgage Investors was one of the most active issues on the NYSE, falling 1 3 8 2 3.8. Turnover in the issue included a block of 154,600 shares at 2. Yesterday the company reported a fourth-quarter loss and sharply lower year net.

Prices declined in light trading on the American Stock Exchange, The Amex index fell 0.84 to 65.52. On the over - the - counter market, the industrial average on the NASDAQ index fell 0.23 to

Bonds and bills lost their initial strength when early small demand evaporated as the session progressed. Bills opened strong following resterday's late announcement by the Treasury that it was reducing the amount of bills on offer at each of the next two regular weekly auctions by $200 million. Bills ended about unchanged against last night's close. Government coupons also ended unchanged, following rises which extended as far as 3/8 point at the long end of the market.

Corporates also lost most of their early gains which followed a fairly good reception to the week's major offering, $100 million of Duke Power Co. fiveyear notes.

The notes, which are rated triple "B" and were issued to yield an unprecedented 13 per cent, were apparently fairly attractive to small investors. The institutional appeal which ated by a 13 per cent yield was blunted because of the downgrading of Duke Power's credit rating recently. Many funds have regulations precluding them from holding securities rated less

U.S. Corn Crop Seen

Up on August Estimate WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP-DJ).—The U.S. Agriculture Department said today it has estimated that belated rainfall caused the 1974 corn crop to improve slightly to an expected output of 5 billion bushels as of Sept. 1. up 29 million bushels from the Aug. 1 forecast.

The department also raised its estimate for soybeans slightly. projecting a harvest of 1.32 billion bushels. The corn estimate remains 11 per cent below last year's production, however, while soybeans would be down 16 per cent.

Free with every cheque book. 226 overseas managers.

As any importer or exporter knows, having your own overseas manager in foreign markets is definitely a Good Thing. Unfortunately, as he knows also, it's a Very Expensive Thing, too.

Which may be why more and more companies are coming to see the advantages of using the Grindlays Group as part of their international operation.

The Group specialises in international trade; so every manager simply has to be an expert on the subject. And to be ready to alert clients to every sort of opportunity and problem in his area—as well as providing everything from market information to personal introductions to potential customers.

Another advantage: the Group includes merchant banks, commercial banks, Gillespies—a leading London confirming house—ship finance companies, and even a travel agency service. So whatever your immediate need, there's almost certainly a company in the Group who can meet it; efficiently and, above all, quickly.

The Group has branches, offices, associates and subsidiaries in 33 countries—in Europe, the Middle East, India,

Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Africa and the Far East. Why not get in touch, and find out more about what we 226 overseas managers is only the start.

Today you need

a good Canadian bank on your side.

But you don't have to pull us all the way from Canada. We have been established in London for over 60 years and

European finance markets have expanded and changed dramatically during the past 60 years and in keeping pace with these changes we have developed the experience required to meet today's varied financing requirements. What's more, apart from being active participants in major Euro-currency loans we have expertise in the syndicating and management of medium term financing.

In short, Toronto Dominion Bank is not just one of the great Canadian Banks; it is one of the top Banks in the world with

...BUT THERE ARE ALWAYS MIRACLE

By Jack and Mary Willis. Viking. 181 pp. $6.95.

Reviewed by Anatole Broyard

IN July of 1969, on a beach near Southampton, L.I., Jack Willis and Mary Pleshette were body-surfing when a wave caught Jack and broke his neck. He was 36, she was 24 and they were planning to marry soon. Judging by the photograph on the jacket of ". But There Are Always Miracles," they were, before the accident, a handsome, vital-looking couple. He is smiling a bit too vehemently and there is a hint of coarseness in her expression, but this may be a result of the angle at which her face is tilted.

I mention their photographs because it is hard to describe them in any other terms and we are asked to interest ourselves in them for 181 pages, to pull for Jack in his fight for recovery and for Mary in her hopes for a happy, normal future as his wife and the mother of his children. Here is a human drama, some might say, but the thought occurs to me that every life is a human drame and that Jack's broken neck is no more crippling than the less-visible "accidents" that afflict so many of us.

A drama rarely transcends its people and although I wanted Jack to recover, this was no more than a humane reflex. Neither he nor Mary ever touched me in a way that would make me care about them in any other sense. I do not understand why we should reserve our compassion for people who "fight" their way back from physical injuries or illnesses. Self-preservation is an animal instinct and I am not sure Jack's struggle was any more "brave" or determined than anyone else's would be under the circumstances. When you come right down to it, he wanted to survive not to illustrate the indomitability of the human spirit, but because he wanted to get back to his undistinguished life and its pleasures.

Perhaps he wanted to see Mary fashion a bra once more out of two doughnuts and a ribbon. There certainly is a lot of talk about their irrepressible sex life and Jack is always asking the doctor whether he will be able to make love—as if there were nothing else to survive for. The story is told by each of them, in alternating chapters, and you can tell that Mary really loves Jack by the intensity of her bromides. Brock Sets Record by Stealing 105th Base

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 11 (UPI):—Lou Brock broke Maury Wille's single-season stolen base record last night when he stole his 105th base in the seventh inning after stealing his 104th in the first Brock's first steal of the night gave him 739 for his career and broke Max Carey's National League record.

On Brock's second theft, he reached first by singling to left and then stole on an 0-1 pitch. The throw from Philadelphia catcher Bob Boone was accurate, but Brock's slide beat the ball.

After the St. Louis star, 38, broke the record set by Wills in 1954, the crowd of more than 30,000 erupted in a cheer of "Lou, Lou," and the Cardinal team left the dugout and the bullpen to mob Brock at second base.

The game was stopped while the Cardinals presented him with the base he had just stolen. then brought him to a microphone.

During an 11-minute ceremony and ovation, Brock thanked the fans, then said, "Now let's get back there and try and score some runs to catch up with these Philadelphia Phillies who are beating our brains out." The Phillies led at the time, 6-2, and won, 8-2

Second America's Cup Race Is Fogged Out

...WPORT, R.I., Sept. 11 (UPI). -The second race of the America's Cup series was postponed to-day because of fog and light winds on the 24.3-mile race course on Rhode Island Sound.

The fog was so bad that both the U.S. defender, Courageous, which won the opening contest yesterday in the best-of-seven series, and the Australian challenger. Southern Cross, were still. at their Newport piers when the racing committee announced the postponement.

There were two shocking developments early in this 4-hour 11-minute race, shocking to Jim Hardy, the Southern Cross skip-

Hardy failed to appreciate a slight windshift and overstood the first mark meaning that he sailed Southern Cross beyond the direct line to the mark near the end of this vital first leg of the course. Midway through this first leg, Halsey Herreshoff, the Courageous navigator, told Ted Hood.

Eastern Division

Philadelphia Eagles (5-8-1)

This is Philly's year in sports, and the Eagles finally are strong enough to score and still stop people. Coach Mike McCormack is settled after his first season and the confidence has spread Roman Gabriel, coming off his best season, says, "We're going to do an awful lot of winning this year." Gabe has great re-ceivers in Harold Carmichael and Charles Young, plus tough young running backs in a sturdy offensive line, Bill Bergey, acquir-ed from Cincinnati, will stabilize the middle on defense; the line is improving, but still needs a stronger pass rush. Washington Redskins (10-4)

Coach George Allen signed Joe Theismann as a back-up quarterback for Billy Kilmer on the theory that a few sessons of Canadian ball had gotten Notre Dame out of Theismann's system. Mark Moseley has replaced an erratic Curt Knight for placekicking. Duane Thomas remains a question mark, along with the running game. New rules could hurt a conservative like Allen. Dallas Cowboys (10-4)

This may be the year the Cow-hoy computer finally breaks down Dalias is loaded with WFL futures, and preseason injuries to Roger Staubach (cracked ribs) and Craig Morton (hand) have taken a bite from the offense. Offensive line, once a pillar, has yet to untrack, and there are reports of unhappy players. The suspension and trade of Otto Stowe, who caught six touchdown passes last season, also hasn't helped morale.

New York Giants (2-11-1) Coach Bill Arnsparger is cleaning house. Defensive front four, with Roy Hilton, John Mendenhall, Larry Jacobson and Jack Gregory, could be formidable, but linebacking is unsettled. Top draft choices, John Hicks and Tom Mullen, will strengthen the offensive line, a weak spot last year. Doug Kotar, a free-agent running back, has been almost too good in presenson play, but a healthy Ron Johnson, who is sidelined is a must

St. Louis Cardinals (4-9-1) Preseason stress has been on running game and defense with some improvement. Two backfield units, Ken Willard-Donny Anderson, and Jim Otis-Terry Metcalf are another innovation of coach Don Coryell Top draft choice J.T. Cain, is the starter at tight end and potential big-play performer. Dennis Shaw, who played Diego State College teams, has joined Jim Hart at quarterback. Secondary should be stronger, but ship caliber in tough division.

Western Division

Los Angeles Rams (12-2) Whatever it takes, Los Angeles seems to have it on paper. Rams averaged 5-2 yards per rush in first five preseason games, John Hadl also has swift Harold Jackson, Jack Snow and Lance Rentzel, who is back in action again after a year's suspension. Offensive line is aging but may hold on one more year. Defensive front four looks strong, particularly with linebackers like Isalah Robertson. Only apparent weakness could be over-confidence, or serious injury to Hadl or other Atjanta Falcons (9-5) Battle remains for No. 1 quarterback job between Bob Lee, last year's late-season hero, and Pat Sullivan, a Heisman Trophy winner, who suddenly is finding himself. Running-back spots are hurt by injuries to Art Malone (broken leg bone) and Dave Hampton (thigh), but rookies Haskell Stanback and Sylvester (Molly) McGee, a surprise 16thround draft find from Rhode and must improve, defense has impressed in preseason games.

San Francisco 49ers (5-9)

Poor preseason record won't help 49ers get off strong, which they must do in difficult division. Steve Spurrier is hurt, running backs are uncertain, and loss of Vic Washington, dumped for his dissidence, doesn't help a poor running game. Wilbur Jackson, top draft choice, could start but can he take weekly pounding? Ted Kwalik, despite WFL contract, could be as good as ever. Defense, led by Cedrik Hardman, can rise to occasion, but needs consistency, particularly at line backer against short passes. Secondary is sound.

New Orleans Saints (5-9)

Some semblance of a running game has surfaced which would ease Archie Manning's load at quarterback. But line is still young and may be a year or two away. Saints had lowest point output of any club in 73. Defensive line is quicker but needs to put more heat on passer to ease prescure on shaky linebacking and secondary. Acquisition of Ken Reaves has been welcomed on defense, and Tommy Myers uses a safety blitz skillfully.

Central Division

Minnesota Vikings (12-2)

Vikings could win division by default unless other three clubs improve Biggest battle is running back, where any one of four players could start beside Chuck Foreman. Offense still has stable line, Fran Tarkenton at quarterback, and a deep threat in John Gilliam, wide receiver. Defense may be slower in stabilizing from player strike, but personnel is backer with promise,

Green Bay Packers (5-7-2)

Coach Dan Devine is under a win-or-leave edict and has brought in old, trusted assistants to help restore the pack, Disfavor followed success of 72 playoff team. Despite John Brock-ington and MacArthur Lane, running game has not jelled and serious quarterback problems will persist, unless Jerry Tagge rides to the rescur. Steve Odom, a flashy rookie, could add zest to offense Defensive line is sound, as is secondary, but may lack for inspiration that characterized 1972 club.

Detroit Lions (6-7-1)

Quarterback position still a tossup between Greg Landry and Bill Munson. Running game sufficient, but offensive line appears intimidated by Vikings, who have beaten Lions 12 straight times. Mike Lucci's retirement leaves gap at middle linebacker, with Ed O'Neil, top draft choice, a possible starter. Rest of defense showed little in 28-7 late preseason lost to Bills. Death of Don McCafferty, who was head coach, may be felt most in loss of lendership, as club struggles to regain championship caliber of

Chicago Bears (3-11)

Bob Douglass, the league's best running quarterback, off to a late start, which hasn't helped the worst offense in the league. Of-fensive line also needs help. Retirement of Dick Butkus, a legend at linebacker, prompted a stress on defense in draft, but the Bears again have been bombarded in preseason play, and Coach Abe Gibron's only confidence is knowing that owner George Halas is on his side. At least until the fans send out their own "Monsters of the Midway" for some drastic

Germans Prefer Their Wives To National Soccer Team

LONDON, Sept. 11 (IHT).-West German football seems to be turning into a kind of Lysistrata. The dominance of soccer players' wives reflects, some say, the new, unprecedented power of women in the German family. First, Gerd Mueller, then Juergen Grahowski, then Wolfgang Overath of the West German World Cup winning team announced their retirement from international soccer, all at the behest of their wives. Each has said, clearly reflecting and repeating the feelings of the distaff side, that international soccer long.

In a sense, however, Mueller would have been better off had he continued his international career-and left Bayern Munich. For last season, the European champions played the best part of a hundred games.

This may have something to do with the fact that they began with an astonishing, unprecedented 6-0 defeat away to Kickers Offenbach, in the Bundesliga. Things have improved a little since then—indeed, they had to while injuries and illness certainly played a part. Nevertheless, it must have been an encouraging result for their chief opponents and rivals in the European Cup. the Barcelona of Johan Cruyff. Rinus Michels and Johan Neeskens (who is now somewhat laboriously learning Spanish, a language which Cruyif acquired in a twinkling)

To supply the absence of Paul Breitner, now with Real Madrid, Bavern has dropped little Kappellmann back from outside-left. This is a little ironic, since one of the various causes of contention between Breitner and Bayern is said to be his loudly-voiced opinion that the buying of Kappellmann was a great mistake.

Kappelimann, essentially a leftwinger, and a good one who did well in the last European Cup final, is multi-lingual. When I met him at Gruenwald, with the West German World Cup team, he was able to converse in English, French, Spanish and Italian. Nor is that the end of his linguistic prowess. The surprising success of Carlisle United, the little Cumberland club who squeaked into the English First Division for the first time in their history, must be causing some wry reflections in the Midlands. Three years ago, Alan Ashman, Carlisle's manager—for the sec-ond time—was coldly sacked by West Bromwich Albion, the Birmingham club. He was on holiday at the time, and actually found out the bleak news second hand. He took a job in Greece, then returned to Carlisle, taking it up to the First Division with a team put together on a shoestring. Meanwhile, West Bromwich's expensive team has slipped down into the Second Division.

Held up by the World Cup, the South American Liberators' Cup is now in its semi-final stage. The winners will then have to wait to see whether Bayern Munich, the European Cup holder, is prepared to play them for the so called Intercontinental had for us?

WASHINGTON.—Dear Jerry. By the time you find this note I will be gone. I don't know how to tell you this, but the honeymoon is over. I guess I should have known it wouldn't last forever, but I didn't think it would end so

How could you do it, Jerry? I believed everything you told me, We were so happy together, and I was so proud when people would point us out and giggle, "They're on their honeymoon."

What a glorious month we had. As far as I was concerned, you could do no wrong. I hung on to every word you said. After my bitter breakup with "you-knowwho," I thought you were differon me and treated me like a _ said I would never fall in love again. And then you came along with your honest face and strong law and sincere smile and damned if my heart didn't go flip-flop.

I said to myself you were special. You knew right from wrong, and you would never be swayed by a lot of rhetoric and doubletalk. Jerry, you promised me you wouldn't do anything unjustice took its course. You told me under the stars as we held hands that the long night-

Italian Police Seize Paintings

PORTOFINO, Italy, Sept. 11 (UPI).—Police today took custody of about 200 paintings and frescoes exhibited in the museum of this Riviera resort town. They said the authenticity of the works of art was in doubt.

The origin of the paintings has been a controversial question among experts ever since the museum opened last March.

On exhibition were 300 frescoes allegedly dating from the 10th century to the Renaissance. The frescoes had been taken from the walls on which they were painted and framed as if oil paintings.

each other forever and ever. Oh, Jerry, what made you change your mind? What happened to all those dreams you i know you tried to explain it to me. You said you had to forgive "you-know-who" as an act of compassion because he had suffered enough. But he hasn't suffered half as much as we have, Jerry. We'll sever know all the things he did to us. Even now he refuses to admit that he did anything wrong. He keeps talking about mistakes in judgment. They weren't mistakes in judgment, and you know it. They were criminal acts and you had no right to forgive him before we knew what they were.

I'm sorry I sound bitter, Jerry. I don't want to. I guess anyone who's been on a honeymoon and then discovers his mate is not a knight in shining armor would feel the same way.

Sunday, after you told me what you were going to do, I decided to go see Evel Knievel jump over the Snake River in his steam rocket. I thought this would make me forget. But it did just the opposite. As I stared at the red, white and blue Sky-Cycle. I thought of us going off into space together.

I could see us flying across chasms and mountains, sharing the danger and thrills that had been so much a part of our

But then as the rocket filled with hot air and the steam built up and the vehicle started lifting off the ramp, something happened. Before it got off, a parachute opened and, instead of streaking out across the canyon, the rocket nosedived and floated head first, crash-landing on the rocky bank of the Snake River. At that moment, Jerry, I broke into tears. I wasn't crying for Evel-I was crying for us. The rocket more than anything symbolized our honeymoon. It looked so beautiful on the pad with all that steam coming out of its nozzles, its nose pointed toward the sky as if to say, "Here I come world, ready or not."

The only trouble, Jerry, with Evel's rocket and your rocket on Sunday about "you-know-who" is that neither one of them would ever fly .- A.B.

no new great personalities. The general level may be improved, but there are no more real individuals.

The Faithful French Feeling for Jazz

PARIS (IHT).—It is said that F. Scott Fitzgerald made the phrase "the jazz age" his own. Malcolm Cowley, in his recent book. "A Second Flowering," says that the jazz age was a dancing, not a drinking, time, and he suggests that jazz may have influenced Fitzgerald's generation to make France their home: "Jazz carried with it a constant message of change, excitement, violent escape, with an undertone of sadness, but with a promise of enjoyment somewhere around the corner of next week, perhaps at midnight in a distant country." The distant country of France may have lost its appeal to writers, but French feel-ing for jazz keeps shuffling along. France's pioneering magazine, Le Jazz Hot, is about to celebrate its 40th birthday, to the astonishment of its daredevil founder. Charles Delaunay.

"There were about 100 serious jazz lovers in France," he says. "People thought I was crazy to start a jazz magazine in France in 1935. Before the war, jazz was music to dance by. If there was a Coleman Hawkins playing, they wouldn't have known about it, they just danced."

The first appearances of Le Jazz Hot were tentative, irregular and, oddly enough, bilingual (French and English). "We thought very naively that as there wasn't much public in France, we could sell all over the world, especially as there were no specialized jazz magazines at the time. says Mr. Delaunay, who shyly admits to having played the drums in his youth. "There was Melody Maker in England and Downbeat started three months before we did, but they were mostly for dance bands."

Cash First

If Delaunay was hopeful, his printers weren't. "At first the magazine came out when it came out. The printers wouldn't print without having the cash first, they didn't have much confidence in us. As soon as one issue was paid for, we'd have to raise money for another one. We'd get musicians together and they'd give a free concert and then we'd have enough for the next issue."

Jazz fans in those days made up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers. "Before the war—I always return to my there was no public for jazz in America while in France we went to a 1222 concert as if we were going to hear Menuhin or Rubinstein," Mr. Delauray says. "In France the people who cared at all were very serious. Americans take jazz for granted, they are often astonished at how serious about it Europeans are."

When the magazine started, its contribu-tors were not paid. By 1940 circulation had climbed to 20,000 a month. Today, Le Jazz Hot is printed only in French, has sub-scribers in 40 countries including Japan and its circulation has fallen by half. Its contributors are back to square one. "Everyone's working for free again, as they did in the Stone Age," says Mr. Delaunay. The magazine's offices on the Rue Chaptal—the street where the Grand Guignol so efficiently curdled spectators' blood for so many years—have got smaller, with space being given to newer publications such as Rock and Folk, Mr. Delaunay remains as buoyant as ever:

"Now that everyone is working for free again, the funny thing is they seem to care much more when they're not paid, they're just as interested as we were at the start. We have an editorial committee gathered from all horizons-blues, spiri-

Le Jazz Hot lists about 30 Paris concerts a month, but there are few new names. "As in painting, there are no new great personalities," Mr. Delaunay says. The general level may be improved, but there are no more-real individuals."

Jazz today, he says, is like politics. "It's musique engage. Each type has its committees, its fanatics. It's become a music contemplation rather than popular music. Between 50 and 80 new jazz LPs come out each month in France," Mr. Delaunay says: "But you don't have any one best seller because there are so many

"In, say, the 1940s jazz had two main styles the New Orleans and Divisland or primitive and swing. And both styles were part of the same family. Then came bop, cool jazz. le hard jazz, le free jazz. There are so many kinds now that amateurs must specialize, like stamp or art collectors. You can't even use the word modern, because the meaning depends on which door you are knocking on."

Own Taste

Mr. Delaunay says his own taste is old-fashioned. "I'm a rieille croîte (old fogey) now, I'm aware of it. I have a 20year-old son who likes everything new. It's logical." He also agrees that Le Jazz Hot is a terribly old-fashloned name: "It's positively Neanderthal," he says.

"We thought of changing it, then we decided to keep it as a joke." The average reader of Le Jazz Hot is over 30, but Mr. Delaunay feels the young are coming to jazz, too: The young, having heard good pop music realize its connections with jazz just as the best pop musicians do. The young are turning to fazz.

"What I like in fazz is its richness, its diversity." Mr. Delaunay says. "I think it will have a revival. When you look over the history of the 30th century, you can see that no other music has renewed itself

"Jazz," he says, "bas a magic power."
